Owl Pellets: Tips for Ag Teachers

By Kinsey Bitterman | November 6, 2024

Becki Lawver, Micheal Pate, and collaborators from, Montana State University and Iowa State University have been exploring what makes multi-year professional development programs in ag machinery safety so impactful. Teachers keep coming back for hands-on modules, effective teaching tools, and curricula they can bring directly into their classrooms. The result? A safer, more caring classroom community and lasting goals that empower students and teachers alike. This research team was featured on the Owl Pellets Podcast: Sequenced Professional Development.
