Frank Clegg, Senior Industrial Designer at Lifetime Products

Frank Clegg, senior industrial designer at Lifetime Products, visited Utah State University juniors and seniors in the Outdoor Product Design & Development program to discuss career readiness and how to prepare for an interview.

Clegg shared his experience working in industry and what stands out most to him when he's interviewing candidates for design positions. He described the importance of knowing the appropriate dress code based on the industry and the importance of displaying a passion for the company a job candidate is applying for.
