

Semesterly “Sheep Day” provides hands-on experience for students

Lynnette Harris

02/19/2019

For 27 years, hundreds of students who have been taught by Professor Lyle “Doc” McNeal have traveled to an outdoor classroom in southwest Wyoming. Sheep Day is a variable credit class where students perform breeding soundness exams on rams for up to five class credits. The class teaches important skills to future veterinarians, farmers, professors and consumers.

Read Full Article