

NCHU Students Learn about Teaching Science in English from USU Professor

08/05/2020

An announcement about "experience teaching subjects using English"

NCHU Students Learn about Teaching Science in English from USU Professor

August 5, 2020

National Chung Hsing University (NCHU) students learned about teaching science subjects using English Language from USU Professor Simon Wang. This further strengthens the collaboration and exchange of information between the universities.

EMI Center is solely responsible for all matters pertaining to English-medium instruction (EMI) at NCHU. The mission of the Center is to support faculty in achieving excellence in EMI teaching by offering diverse professional development programs, and to improve all students' English proficiency by offering a range of options for English language support.